WHAT YOU WILL GAIN

You will gain an international, European academic degree that will offer you a variety of opportunities. You will be equipped to do theology in a rapidly changing world. Be part of an international academic community that doesn't just study theology — but shapes the world.

3 THINGS YOU WILL LEARN

1. The ability to think theologically, argue clearly, and work independently in complex contexts
2. An interdisciplinary training in human sciences, communication, and key competencies
3. High-level study in systematic theology, ethics, liturgy, church history and many more...

WHAT IS THE AIM OF THE MASTER'S PROGRAMME?

The 21st century is characterized by profound processes of transformation: ecological crises, political conflicts, technological innovations, and more, which are raising fundamental questions of orientation in an increasingly globalized world marked by (religious) pluralism. This is happening at both the personal and the societal levels.

The Church and theology are part of these transformation processes. At the same time theology offers the potential to deal responsibly with transformation processes and the challenges that accompany them.

The new Master's degree programme addresses this challenge in two ways:

On the one hand, the outlined horizon becomes the starting point to get to know Catholic theology in interdisciplinary discourse as a discipline that is relevant to the present context and is itself undergoing change.

On the other hand, the transforming world also forms the goal of the program: Catholic theology is explored as a (self-) critical science that, based on its self-image, influences social discourse and can contribute to the humane shaping of society and the world.
